Too few feeders for a market test. Plenty of rain throughout the month of July has pastures in great shape & beef producers are in no hurry to market cattle at the present time.

Not enough feeder cattle for a good market test. A light run of cattle, no doubt limited somewhat by the uncomfortably high heat over the weekend. However, more seasonable summertime weather to start the week has helped ease the stress on livestock as well as market reporters. Beef futures also starting the week with limit up prices & that has producers along with the sale barn owners crossing their fingers & toes that a summer low is in place & prices are set to make a move higher.
